Dozens angry: Grove-Boyd Station vote 3-0

TAMMY CHEEK

Farragut Board of Mayor and Aldermen faced a concerned crowd of nearly 40 — which became interruptive at some points — at the Board's Thursday, June 10, meeting, when it voted 3-0 to deny resident/ developer Steve Williams' appeal of Farragut Municipal Planning Commission's April 15 approval of a concept plan for the Grove at Boyd Station subdivision, which includes a right-of-way along Williams' property.

'You are directly impacting the 10 or so residents of the Farm at Willow Creek," said neighborhood resident Kathy Ciorciari of Ivy Lake Road.

"This will be a big disruption to our neighborhood," added John McCarthy of Stone Villa Lane.

Williams

However, that neighborhood is across the street from Williams' property and does not abut the proposed development.

"I've got a pretty good collection of our neighbors here, all very concerned about the potential just the potential — of this road being built," McCarthy said.

He added many of the residents with whom he talked moved in his neighborhood because it is low density and a nice area in which to live, but "now we're seeing a more high-density thing being put in here. "(The right-of-way) will directly affect our lives. All these cars (would be) coming down, pointing right at (Ciorciari's house). ... We don't feel that this (right-ofway) is needed. We don't feel it's required, except by what the city says for connectivity. It does not need to be in this location."

Several residents asked the Board to change the Town's regulations about having "stub-outs."

Your subdivision regulations are supposed to be followed when you're approving subdivisions," Town attorney Tom Hale said.

The concept plan included a street right-of-way and pedestrian facility within the right-of-way being stubbed into the common property shared with Williams' property, Farragut Community Development director Mark Shipley said.

The residents voiced their concerns the right-of-

$4.1 million in 'revenue over expenditures' estimate for Town FY 22

TAMMY CHEEK

tcheek@farragutpress.com

In its first in-person meeting in Farragut Town Hall since the COVID-19 pandemic began, Farragut Board of Mayor and Aldermen passed its 2021-22 budget with a unanimous vote, on second reading, adopting the annual General Fund, State Street Aid Fund Capital Investment Fund, Equipment Replacement Fund, Tourism Fund and Insurance Fund budgets during its meeting Thursday, June 10.

Town administrator David Smoak said the only changes from the first reading were an anticipation of revenue at $12.258 million with expenditures at $8,150,132, a 14.2 percent increase over the fiscal year 2021 end-of-year estimate.

"This amount did increase $1,000 from the first reading," Smoak said. He noted the increase includes additional money for school support at the request of the Education Relations Committee.

KCSOreports

• At 11:35 p.m., Friday, June 11, a Knox County Sheriff's Office deputy was dispatched to a North Campbell Station Road address for a disturbance. Officer reported observing an eventual arrestee step from a silver Saturn sedan, which matched a suspect vehicle report. "When exiting the vehicle a green and white object fell from his lap to the ground," the report stated. "It was later discovered to be a marijuana pipe with burnt residue in the bowl." Eventual arrestee stumbled from the vehicle and appeared very unsteady on his feet, while a "very strong odor of marijuana" was coming from the vehicle. "When making contact I observed" (detainee) had urinated on himself and had a very strong odor of an alcoholic beverage coming from his person ... very glassy eyes, slurred speech and mussed clothes," the report further stated. Eventual arrestee said he had last consumed two beers around 9:30 p.m., and smoked marijuana last around 2:30 p.m. Deputy conducted the Standardized Field Sobriety Tests. Eventual arrestee performed poorly and was deemed unfit to operate a motorized vehicle. Upon a records check, it was discovered he does have a history of DUI convictions, the last being in 2011. Detainee was then placed in custody and Mirandized, then transported to Roger D. Wilson Detention Facility. Upon a search of arrestee's vehicle, a clear baggy containing 5.26 grams of a green leaf-like substance appearing to be marijuana was located. The marijuana pipe was turned into the property lockers at Knox County Jail. The green leaf-like substance appearing to be marijuana was turned into the Narcotics Locker at the jail.

• At 6:16 p.m., Friday, June 11, a KCSO deputy responded to a Winmont Turn address for reports of a hit-and-run. Deputy spoke with victim/property owner, who said a Door

Dash company vehicle damaged the railroad tie lining his driveway before fleeing the scene, but was unsure of the suspect vehicle and did not know anything about the Door Dash driver. Victim said he was trying to get into touch with Door Dash to get information on the individual who damaged his property. Goldman estimated the damage to be about $700.

• At 11:57 a.m., Thursday, June 10, a KCSO unit responded to a report of fraud at Home Federal Bank, 10686 Parkside Drive. Victim said a man who stated his name was "Andrew" had contacted her via telephone informing her that she had won $2 million from the Publisher's Clearing House Sweepstakes. Suspect informed her she owed $15,000 in "processing fees." Suspect said he would meet her at her bank so she could withdraw the money. Bank staff notified police upon finding out why victim was withdrawing such a large sum. A KCSO detective was notified.

• At 8:48 a.m., June 10, a KCSO unit responded to an East Kingsgate Road residence for reports of lost/stolen items. Complainant said she just moved to this address and found an iPhone and bank card next to a tree in her yard. Complainant was unable to make contact with the victim. Property was taken to Knox County Jail property lockers.

• At 11:32 a.m., June 10, a complainant called KCSO North Precinct to file a report on an attempted forgery of a check at First Horizon Bank, 11685 Parkside Drive. She advised a known suspect attempted to deposit a forged check on the victim's business for $2,469.44. She advised the suspect used his driver's license when attempting to deposit the forged check. Complainant was going to check if the bank had video of this incident. The check was not cashed or deposited.

Back Pain & Sciatica:

Have You Tried Everything? Free Back Pain Guide Included

By - Leading Physical Therapist, Dr. John-Mark Chesney

Six weeks ago Tammy reached out to me because of her back pain and sciatica. Now she had suffered for some time- but this spring was literally the first time she gave up tending to her flower beds because the pain had gotten unbearable. Gardening was very therapeutic for her in multiple ways and she was beginning to wonder if she would need to give up her love of gardening for good.

Tammy had tried previous physical therapy, injections, pain medication, and yet she was still suffering. She thought her only option left would be surgery if she had any chance of defending her crown for "Neighborhood- Best Yard Award 2021".

Now Tammy was skeptical and doubtful- and you know what her 1st step was? She called the office and requested my Pain Guide - "8 Secrets For Eliminating Back Pain Without Pain Medication, Injections, or Surgery."

If you want to take a hike in the Smokies, walk your dog, get through the grocery store, or simply to get rid of your back pain so you don't have to slow down and suffer any longer- then KEEP READING

You see despite Tammy's past disappointment she hasn't given up. She kept searching for something other than surgery or pain pills. The Low Back Pain Guide you can request is designed to give you my best tips and recommendations that I give all my clients, including Tammy, who also suffered from back pain and sciatica.

If this sounds like you, If you've already tried things like physical therapy, chiropractic, massage therapy, acupuncture, yoga, etc. please keep searching for the right treatment, the right fit. I can guarantee you that your body is trying to recover- it just needs the right environment, the right "fit".

Injections and surgery should be your absolute last resort when it comes to eliminating lower back and sciatic pain. And there are certainly situations where you need surgery immediately, especially if you have a disc rupture or spinal fracture that cannot be healed.

If you've tried physical therapy (or chiropractic), did you stick with the advice you were given? Keeping in mind that not all healthcare providers are created equally?

You'd be surprised by how many of our patients tell us "Tve tried physical therapy before and it didn't work for me." My next question goes like this: "What did you do with your PT?" These people were often given generic exercises with little to no hands-on treatment. It's understandable why so many of them drop out of therapy early, especially when the exercises are making them feel worse.

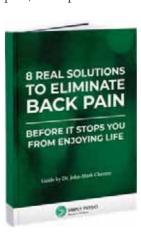

I have a resource I want to share with you today:
my FREE REPORT on how to eliminate back

The report is titled "8 Secrets for Eliminating Back Pain without Pain Killers, Injections, or Surgery". As the title implies, this report includes 8 tips that you can use to start reducing your back pain right away.

I designed this report as a starting point for people who are looking for ways to naturally experience pain relief, without having to rely on pain medications. The 8 tips will help you get the ball rolling and ultimately give you hope that there is a solution to your pain.

It's just a matter of figuring out what will work best for you. To claim your copy of this FREE report, call or text the office at (865) 351-0615 or visit www.simplypt.com/back-newspaper

I have 9 copies of this report remaining- so please call ASAP so I can reserve one for you.

I hope today's article has inspired you to explore every possible solution to help you relieve your pain and avoid having injections or surgery. As always-please don't hesitate to call or email me with questions.

"At the end of the fiscal year, we project that we'll have $4.1 million in revenues over expenditures," he said. "We'll also be able to fund our Rainy Day fund at a total of $2.445 million, and we project an available fund balance at the end of FY'22 to be $19.2 million."

FHS Softball Day

On another note, Vice Mayor Louise Povlin read a proclamation declaring Friday, June 11, as Lady Admirals Softball Day in Farragut, as the team's players and coaches were on hand following a special year.

Povlin congratulated head coach Nick Green and the Lady Admirals team members "for their amazing season," winning the Division I Class AAA state championship in Murfreesboro in late May with a final record of 37-2.

"That doesn't come easy, and there's a lot of work that's put into that," said Alderman Drew Burnett, who has a son playing for the FHS boys soccer team.

Wreck," as well as dinner and awards awaited the Town's many volunteers, who were recognized for five, 10 and 20 years of service.

"It's been quite a year, and we are thrilled to be able to, once again, gather together and celebrate," Mayor Ron Williams said. "Thank you for your time and talents that you shared with the Town of Farragut.

"Even with the pandemic, you found ways to serve the Town through alternate events, social distancing in the museum and virtual committee meetings," he added. "During this past fiscal year, the Town had over 70 volunteers, including our youth members, serving on 10 standing committees who did an outstanding job of contributing to the success of the Town."

"Service Awards are given for each five-year increment, and committee members are awarded one year of service credit for each year they have served on the committee," Town administrator David Smoak said. "If a volunteer serves on two committees in the same year, he or she is credited with one year of service."

This year's service awards went to:

- Twenty year: Marty Rodgers, Arts and Beautification Committee.
- Ten Year: Keith Alley, Board of Zoning Appeals; Carolyn Coker, Farragut Museum Committee; Jim Holladay, Economic Advisory Council and BZA; and Violet Freudenberg, Stormwater Advisory Council.
- Five year: T.C. Williams, Arts and Beautification Committee; Jennifer Collins, Board of Zoning Appeals; and Jeff Devlin, Personnel Committee and Parks & Athletics Council.

"Thank you again for the many hours that you have donated from participating in meetings — many of which were challenging as virtual meetings — to working to accomplish committee goals," Williams said. "The Town is richer due to you involvement and expertise."

The Town has another avenue of volunteering — the Farragut Unsung Navy Volunteer program, which began in 1992

"In 2020, our volunteers started the year off with a bang and gave their time and talents to the FUN Volunteer Program," Williams said. "They worked in a variety of areas for the Town including: docents in the museum and gift shop, and at special events such as the Songwriters Showcase and Shamrock Ball.

"Then COVID hit, and our opportunities came to a screeching halt," he added. "But our wonderful volunteers came through again as the year progressed, assisting staff with special events in an alternate form, such as Freaky Friday and re-opening the museum in a limited capacity."

In 2020, the 56 FUN volunteers gave 980 hours, which equals a dollar value of more than $9,800, Williams said.

FUD restriction request is 'management of growth'

I have read recent Letters to the Editor regarding the latest announcements by (First Utility District) requesting restricted use of residential sprinklers. One side has criticized the use of water rationing and wonders why the county and city cannot work with that utility company to control water demand.

Another person writes in and states that water rationing is part of being a good neighbor and supports community growth.

The issue is much, much larger.

The issue is the management of growth, or in this case, sprawl. There is not much in the way of managed growth that I have observed in my 20-year tenure in the area. In addition, the grid sprawl manifests itself in ways other than calls for water rationing.

The sprawl impacts these grid components as

- increased traffic on already crowded roads and highways, which leads to more maintenance costs and accident incidence; • increased stoplights resulting in longer times to make a
- · additional demand placed on water and sewage treatment systems; • additional demand placed on natural gas lines; • additional demand placed on the electrical grid;
- · increased demand placed on the internet; · increased price per acre cost for property;
- · ever smaller lots for homes, etc.; · and finally, more pollution.

All these things have the potential to, or are, eroding the quality of life for existing residents of Knox area neighborhoods, precincts, districts, county etc. Our County Commissioners have an obligation to protect our neighborhoods, precincts, districts, county and plan to allow organized, logical and methodical growth without allowing the grid components to deteriorate. I have yet to see that managed. ...

Of course, additional people mean additional schools and hospitals, grocery stores, etc. to service their needs.

The whole issue appears to be driven by one thing: lust for tax base.

In the media it is disguised as opening up for opportunity. Unfortunately, it means utility services that earlier "settlers" count on continue to decline in performance, hence the recent call for rationing water. Performance will continue to decline for all utilities as supply is swallowed by ever increasing demand until the brakes are put on this development expansion.

Or as an alternative: let every new development pay to study, assess, and upgrade the grid components such that heir proposed impact of additional customers can be easily absorbed before the developments are allowed to break ground.

Make the developers accountable to at least maintain or improve grid performance. That way no harm is done to the existing settlers and the new ones can enjoy what older ones have. And everyone is happy.

Light timing must improve at KP-Watt

For the past couple of weeks there have been traffic back-ups at the Kingston Pike/Watt Road traffic signal intersection. These backups can stretch for almost a mile at times.

What has happened to the traffic light and who is responsible for getting it straightened out? There obviously is a problem with the timing and it needs adjustment.

way would turn into a road that would intersect with Evans Road, making Evans Road a cut-through to Kingston Pike.

'We back directly to Evans Road," Ciorciari said. "The rate of traffic (already) is ridiculous ... the (concept) plan had (the right-of-way) ending in my backyard. Seven hundred cars with noise, headlights; my daughter here will have no privacy in her bedroom ... It's going to make us and all our neighbors' backyards unusable."

If the stub-out were to become a road, Evans Road resident and civil engineer Larry Doss warned Grove residents would use that road as a cutthrough. "It's going to become a nightmare," he said.

However, Vice Mayor Louise Povlin said Grove subdivision engineers suggested any future road be taken across Turkey Creek Drive into Virtue Road, not Evans Road.

"What you're called on tonight, with respect to this matter, is to review the actions of the Planning Commission and the approval on April 15 of the concept plan for the proposed subdivision, known as the Grove at Boyd Station," Hale said. He later instructed the Board that it was to decide if the FMPC followed Town ordinances in making its decision.

While Povlin, who sits on the FMPC, and Aldermen Scott Meyer and Ron Pinchok voted to deny the appeal, Alderman Drew Burnette, who said he didn't think he had enough information at that time to make a decision, abstained from voting. Mayor Ron Williams was out of town.

Shipley said the subdivision planned for the southeast intersection of McFee and Boyd Station roads. When FMPC approved the concept plan in April, Shipley said the FMPC required "a public right-of-way - not a street being constructed — to the north."

"There's a couple of large tracts there that could, in the future, be developed," he added. "It's probably not realistic to think, in this part of Knox County, that a large piece of property couldn't potentially be developed."

Shipley said the right-of-way came about as the FMPC considered the Town's long-range goals toward connectivity.

However, Steve Williams and

ney, Taylor Forrester, objected to the stubbed out rightof-way, claiming, if Williams were to dehis velop property, the right-of-way would require him to put a road leading to Evans Road, which would then be a cutthrough to Evans Road.

Evans Road residents also objected to the right-of-way.

Brett Smith of Stone Villa Lane said while he did not object to the Grove at Boyd Station development, he was concerned about future traffic safety on Evans Road.

He warned already there are "too many cars going 50 miles per hour" on Evans Road.

"I play chicken to take my kids to Faragut Intermediate and Farragut Middle School, making that left from Evans (Road) onto Virtue," Ciorciari said. "I've almost gotten T-

"Evans was never designed to be a cut-through."

Povlin said if a road were built where the right-of-way is located, it actually would lead to Virtue Road, not Evans Road. Additionally, she said the Town's fire marshal requires a secondary access point for emergency vehicles.

"They are not required to connect here (at the right-of -way)," she said. "You can have a subdivision with 30 homes and they could ask for a variance.

"Mr. Williams could decide to have estate-sized lots, and that connection would not have to be made," Povlin added. "This is a Planning Commission trying to plan for, in the most logical sense, where to put a connection that does not create the situation that none of us want to see."

"All (the right of way) is now trees and grass. That's all it really has to be."

Povlin said the future of the right-of-way rests on Williams' future plans of whether or not he would develop his property. "As far as I can tell, he is in the driver's seat," she said. Williams disagreed and argued variances are hard to get. Russ Rackley, engineer who designed the Grove at Boyd Station, said while he initially argued against the connection. he included it in the concept plan because it was required.

"I don't see how it's an issue for the Planning Commission to approve a plan meeting their requirements," he said.

Additionally, moving the right-of-way now would cause his development to be delayed. Rackley added.

"I can't bear the cost of this project being delayed by some confusion over whether or not the Planning Commission's actions were legal," he added. "... You don't have to connect to Evans," Rackley said. 'The most obvious place, when (Williams') property develops, would be to put the intersection at Turkey Creek Road."

Some of Souza's many 'students'

With Millan 'psychology' method, Balanced Paws fills dogs' needs

Lincoln and Laura De Souza of Farragut are bringing the training of world renowned "Dog Whisperer" Cesar Millan to their dog psychology center, Balanced Paws K9 Training, which opened last week at 11135 Kingston Pike in Far-

Lincoln, a canine behaviorist, has been training dogs for four years. He started the business in his home, but with the business' growth he said they decided to open up the center to accommodate more dogs.

"It's not a day care, it's a boot camp," he said adding, "It's not just training, it's focusing on the dog's needs. Every dog that comes here, whether it comes from a puppy stage or adult dog, has some type of behavior issues.

"The reason why we do it is because their needs aren't being met the way they should be met."

Lincoln is a student of Millan and volunteers with Millan's team, teaching students from around the world.

"We bring a different aspect into what we do here, and what we teach owners is the way the dog sees the world," he said. "As Cesar would say, 'It's all about exercise, discipline, then affection last.'

McGill looks to re-establish Webb volleyball champion tradition

Correspondent

KNOXVILLE — Ellen McGill has returned to East Tennessee.

The 2002 Alcoa High School graduate. looking to return home, has landed at Webb School of Knoxville as the Lady Spartans volleyball head coach.

"To be honest, I was looking to come home, and I reached out to (Webb athletic director David) Meske to see if they had anything available, and he said that he was looking for a head coach," said McGill, who was a four-sport athlete for the Lady Tornadoes before moving on to Virginia Intermont College.

For the last six years, McGill has been head coach at the University of North Carolina-Pembroke, enjoying a banner campaign for the Braves — winning the most conference matches in 27 years, which earned her Peach Belt Conference Coach of the Year honors.

McGill said she knew the spring semester would be her last at UNC-Pembroke, where she began her head coaching tenure in 2016.

However, "I decided to stay for the spring semester at UNC-Pembroke, and our team did some special things, some things that we had never done before. We had a great season. Our season got moved to the spring because of COVID."

She and her husband, Mitch McGill, a Gibbs High School graduate, decided to move back to the Knoxville area last winter with their 15-month-old son.

"Family is the most important thing and that's why we're back here," coach McGill said. "We decided to come back at Christmas.

"My husband started looking for jobs and he got hired on by Knox County Schools," she added.

Coach McGill was hired by Webb in May and recently began offseason workouts with the Lady Spartans, a program boasting one of most storied high school traditions in the state.

"At Webb they have a winning tradition; they have high academic expectations and high expectations for their sports programs," McGill said. "The best and brightest decide to go to school at Webb, and it will be an easy transition coming from college."

The Lady Spartans won six straight Division II-A state championships from 2013 through 2018 under the leadership of head coach Chris Hames.

"You have support from the administration and the parents and I'm thankful to get the opportunity to keep coaching," McGill said

With a need to rebuild to a championship level, "We've faced a rebuild everywhere I've been," she added.

"We'll have our work cut out for us."

Flamingo theme, sea of pink Six teams winners at FDCC Ladies 18-Hole Club Guest Day

STAFF REPORTS editor@farragutpress.com

Many of the 72 participants in 2021 Fox Den County Club's annual 18-Hole Ladies Club Guest Day took the "flamingo" theme to heart in their attire, as this "best ball off the tee" 18hole friendly competition among teams of four recognized the top three teams in First Flight and Second Flight Thursday, June 10.

Following play in the morning and early afternoon, a luncheon in the club's main ballroom recognized six top teams, plus individual skill awards and blind-draw winners, with various prizes.

First Flight champions with a score of 83 (score with highest numbers are superior) were Traci Smith, Lynna Rader, Robin Banner and Tammy Cheek (not our farragutpress reporter). Runner-ups (79) were Annette Stevens, Julie Maier, Elessa Epps and Sharon Kelly. Thirdplace finishers (77) were R J Whitfield, Teresa Reed, Karen Jones and Suzanne Crutcher.

Second Flight champions (79) were Sally Hedgepeth, Sherrie McCarty, Whitney Childers and Rachael Bennett. Finishing second (78) were Betty Thomas, Caroline Pardue, Nancy Alford and Song Alford. Taking third-place (71) were Betty MacDonald, Kathy Kruse, Debbie Patterson and Delores Haynie.

Individual awards went to Catherine Manning (Putting Contest); Judy Strandquist (Member Closest to the Hole on tee-off at No. 16) and Pardue (Guest Closest); and Donna Pyle (Member Most Accurate Drive on No. 8) and Maier (Guest Most Accurate).

Packer LLS 'Man of Year,' Azambuja top 'Woman'

editor@farragutpress.com

Through The Leukemia & Lymphoma Society's unique philanthropic competition, Man & Woman of the Year, "six motivated, passionate and dedicated local professionals raised $346,754 for LLS's cuttingedge cancer research and patient services," a LLS press release stated.

Mark Packer of Farragut, owner of Pack Man Productions and former anchor at WVLT-TV 8, raised the most funds among men, earning him the title of "Man of the Year."

This honor "is a 10-week philanthropic competition among a group of motived and dedicated individuals in the community," the press release further stated.

Maryann Azambuja of Lenoir City, senior account executive at Choice Home Warranty, raised the most funds among women, earning her the title of "Woman of the Year."

Male candidates John Mathews and Bart Hodson raised more than $50,000, "which allows a linking to a research portfolio name in honor of a loved one," the release also stated.

Such efforts help "support LLS's goal to find cures for blood cancers and ensure that patients have access to lifesaving treatments." Candidates are nominated and form fundraising American Medical Response-Rural/Metro has added a new VIP to its crew.

Recently welcomed was Dolly, a 17-month-old Goldendoodle certified by Global Medical Response as the fire station's regional training and therapy dog to assist emergency workers. The announcement came at a Farragut West Knox Chamber of Commerce networking, hosted by AMR-Rural Metro Fire at Farragut Community Center.

"These guys have dealt with more stress than probably any (other) people in the community," said Mike Arms, a senior partner of Tennessee Strategies and lobbying supporter for AMR-Rural Metro Fire.

"She was named after Dolly Parton," Fire Chief Jerry Harnish said, adding she also is trained and certified through the Federal Emergency Management Agency and will be available for FEMA.

The pup is in the care of co-handlers Darek Shetterly, administrative supervisor, and Daryl Warren, operations manager.

"We like to say we split custody," Shetterly said. "I love having her. The crew loves her, and she is a big hit with our staff.

"She is here for comfort, if we've had a bad day or had a bad call," he added. "She does a great job at it for sure.'

During the networking, Harnish recognized the late Chief Bill Blankenship, who had the foresight to establish the Fire and Rescue system. Blankenship died this year from com-

Farragut High School Class of 2004 alumnus Michael Camp's master's degree thesis led to him recently authoring a book, "Unnatural Resources."

The book focuses on energy and environmental issues arising out of the 1970s.

"There's a chapter on an experimental reactor on the Clinch River near Oak Ridge that was never actually built, but it illustrates a lot of things about the conflict between energy production and environmental priorities," he said.

Camp also wrote about the Tellico Dam controversy in Loudon County, and he wrote about the administrative restructuring of TVA from a board of directors consisting of three full-time federal employees to 15 part-time members made up of private-sector lawyers, bankers and other businessmen.

Published through the University of Pittsburgh Press, "It's a book that tries to have a dialogue between these things happening nationally ... and with the Tennessee state government, but especially the administrators of these very local projects and what it meant for the Knoxville community to become this very intense focus of federal tension as a site of potential energy

Patriotic refurbishing

A week before Memorial Day, Farragut's Town Hall Flag Disposal Box was looking faded due to the effects of sun and harsh weather since Eagle Scout Colin Bennett — then with Troop 555 in Farragut — installed it in 2014 as his Eagle Scout project. Bennett received a full scholarship to the University of Alabama, after graduating from Hardin Valley Academy, where he "majored in aerospace engineering and stayed an extra year to receive his master degree," his step-grandfather, Jack Ferrell, said. "He was then offered a job in Jeff Bezo's Space Exploration Company in Seattle," which he accepted, before taking a job "with a new aerospace company in Los Angeles." Mary Ferrell Miller (above), Bennett's aunt and an FHS graduate, decided to restore the Box just before Memorial Day "so the Farragut Boy Scout Troop could dispose of the old flags in a patriotic ceremony," Ferrell added.

With compassion and comfort, we have been proudly serving the families of this community since 1884.

• Big Brothers Big Sisters of East Tennessee will host its first Bags for Kids' Sake event Saturday and Sunday, June 19-20. The Saturday event, which takes place at Next Level Brewing starting at noon, includes a double-elimination cornhole tournament.

The Sunday family-friendly celebration at Zoo Knoxville features one-hour time slots for cornhole games between noon and 4 p.m. Bags for Kids' Sake is the agency's first in-person fundraiser in more than 18 months. Last year's cancelation due to COVID-19 resulted in a loss of more than $100,000 in revenue for the agency.

Bags for Kids' Sake will take place entirely outdoors, and guests will remain distanced. Masks will not be required, but non-vaccinated attendees are encouraged to wear facial coverings, per CDC recommendations. More details about Bags for Kids' Sake can be found at BagsForKidsSake.org.

• MEDIC Regional Blood Center has an immediate, critical need for O Negative blood type. As of a few days ago, there were only 20 units available for distribution – less than a day's supply. As a comparison, recently one patient needed 20 units alone.

Donations can be made locally at the Farragut location, 11000 Kingston Pike, or in Downtown Knoxville, 1601 Ailor Ave. For location hours, directions and Mobile Blood Drive List, visit medicblood. org/. Masks are now voluntary at MEDIC donor centers and on mobile buses. Appointments are preferred and can be made online at www.medicblood.org..

· Flying Anvil Theatre, 1300 Rocky Hill Road in West Knoxville, will present performances of "Love, Loss, and What I Wore" beginning at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, June 23, through Saturday, June 26, and beginning at 2 p.m., Sunday, June 27.

This highly acclaimed play was written by Nora and Delia Ephron and based on the book by Ilene Beckerman and features monologues and ensemble pieces about women, clothes and memories. It will be the Flying Anvil Theatre's first in-person event of 2021, and tickets will be limited to allow for social distancing.

Tickets are available now at https://www.flyinganviltheatre.com/tickets. General admission tickets are $50, and "Bridge the Gap" philanthropy tickets, which include an additional donation, are available for $75. Additionally, tickets for a VIP cocktail hour before the Saturday evening show are $100. All proceeds benefit Choice Health Network and the Flying Anvil Theatre.

The theatre will use enhanced cleaning procedures, and masks are required when not eating or drinking.

 Knox County again is hosting its Second Saturday Concert Series this summer as the Parks & Recreation Department will oversee live music at The Cove in Concord Park, 11808 S. Northshore Drive, which "is the county's most visited park," a Knox County Parks & Recreation press release stated.

These free concerts, held from 6 to 8 p.m. on the second Saturday of the month, kicked off June 12 and continue in July and August. Attendees are encouraged to bring their own blankets, lawn chairs and food. No alcohol is allowed.

production," the author said.
"The book came out of a master's degree that I was doing in Chicago about 10 years ing in Chicago about 10 years ago," Camp added. "I was taking some graduate seminars in urban history."

Part of the criteria for the class involved spending a quarter researching and writing a research paper that eventually became Camp's master's thesis.

Although most people wrote about Chicago, he was not as familiar with the city, so he brought his thesis home.

"I had worked in the archives at the University of Tennessee, and I knew what was there," Camp recalled. "I knew there was a story to tell about the history of the City of Knoxville."

His thesis centered on the 1982 World's Fair. Camp recalled thinking about "how the confluence of the (President Jimmy) Carter administration being interested in energy after the '73 oil embargo, being interested in increasing energy production to make up for the sudden uncertainty about foreign oil."

He said there was a particular interest in Tennessee because of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory, Tennessee Valley Authority and its proximity to coal in Kentucky and West Virginia.

"The economy, culture and lots of other things evolved around energy in East Tennessee, leading to the World's Fair," he said. He wrote about how the Carter Administration interacted with Knoxville's mayor's office; city plications from COVID-19, but "his legacy is still here," Harnish said.

According to Rural/Metro Fire's website, it is "the largest planners and downtown business owners and their desire to rejuvenate downtown and all the power relations going on around the fair, and what resulted with tourism and the highway system expansion.

He discovered there "really hadn't been a lot written about the '70s, as Carter administration documents were just becoming declassified.

"I saw an opportunity because what little there was written about the oil embargo tended to focus on national and international issues," he said. Camp pointed out the 1970s were not only a time of energy uncertainty, but also a time of the rising environmental movement.

"Having grown up in Farragut and the Knoxville area, I knew there probably was another side of this story to tell because energy is a domestic issue and an international issue, but it ultimately also is a local issue because of the nuclear plants, hydro-electric plants and coal mines," Camp said.

"All these energy-producing facilities have an effect on the physical landscapes of the communities and have effects on the economic opportunities in an area and composition of the workforce," he added.

When Camp entered a PhD program at Emory University in Atlanta, he wrote a longer dissertation on the effects of the 1973 oil embargo on the East Tennessee region, which evolved into "Unnatural Resources."

Camp said his book is available for purchase at most major bookstore websites, such as Amazon, and through the University of Pittsburgh Press.

Medal of Honor given
The DAR's Medal of Honor

The DAR's Medal of Honor is the highest and most prestigious award given by the DAR and must be reviewed and authorized on a national level before being awarded to a recipient, according to the DAR press release.

Edmonds a hero

On Saturday, May 22, after this stringent review was completed, the Chapter presented the award to Pastor Christopher W. Edmonds, whom the chapter had recommended to receive it.

Edmonds was born to follow his father's strong moral code and "choose to do what is right for others, oppose what's wrong or evil, dignify life and humanity and express love for everyone," the release stated.

This sense of valor and trustworthiness was known as "Roddie's Code," the life-long code of Edmond's father, Roderick W. "Roddie" Edmonds, whose legacy of leadership and bravery as a German prisoner of war was unknown by his family until long after his death, and was only discovered when Edmonds attempted to help his daughter with a college history project about her grandfather's military service.

After finding his father's POW journals and wanting to learn more, Edmonds made it his mission to research, document and preserve his father's military history.

When he discovered his father courageously defied a German officer's order to identify Jews among more than 1,200 American POW soldiers by declaring "We are all Jews here," Edmonds understood his father had saved many lives.

Making certain his father's story is known across the nation and around the world has become Edmond's passion and mission, the press release continued.

He has shared Roddie's Code with students, veterans, military leaders and the general public to inspire heroism and trustworthiness when faced with life challenges.

Edmonds' own dedication and determination to share his father's story led to Israel's first recognition of an American soldier with its highest honor, one of only five Americans ever to be named as "Righteous Among Nations."

The event was held at Rothchild Catering & Conference Center, and those attending included the state DAR Regent Cecile Wimberley and 2nd District U.S. Rep. Tim Burchett (R-2nd District). After receiving the award, Edmonds discussed his father's faith and valor.

"It was an amazing story," said Martha Kroll, the Chapter's corresponding secretary.

"I don't think there was a dry eye in the room when it was complete," she added.

'Wildlife' offered at Morning Pointe

The Lantern at Morning Pointe Alzheimer's Center of Excellence at Lenoir City has started a new weekly club, the Wildlife Club. Each week, residents have a chance to experience something they never have before. Whether it's a visit from a furry friend or trivia based on an exotic animal, the club enjoys learning something and even making new friends. "Seeing residents' faces light up as they're doing something different, that's the great thing about working at Morning Pointe. Everyone is on a team looking for something new for residents and finding things that are enjoyable. I think the Wildlife Club has really brought our animal lovers out and given them an activity they can look forward to," said Kassie Smith, The Lantern resident liaison. As health guidelines continue to change and the opportunity for safe visitation increases, The Lantern looks for partners in the community who might give their time expanding Wildlife Club activities. On Tuesday, June 29, the Farragut West Knox Chamber will partner with three of its neighboring organizations to co-host the first Regional 4-Chamber Business Networking event.

Co-host chambers include Loudon County Chamber of Commerce, Oak Ridge Chamber of Commerce and Roane County Chamber of Commerce. The event will be held at The Venue at Lenoir City, a mutual member of several of the hosting chambers, sponsored by Dixie Lee Wine & Liquors and Classy Caterer.

Chamber CEOs Julie Blaylock (Farragut) and Rodney Grugin (Loudon) co-hosted a similar event in March to the delight of both membership bases. The successful event saw over 185 drop-in guests over the course of two hours. The June event is creating "a lot of buzz" within the chambers and expects to double that attendance.

Blaylock speculated that, "Coming out of the past year, our members are craving the opportunity to meet new faces in person and that's why the March networking with just us and Loudon was so wellreceived. Incorporating two more fantastic organizations will introduce our businesses to even more prospective partners or clients that they'd likely never have met otherwise."

There is no cost to attend for members of the hosting chambers; members are encouraged to register with their member chamber. Farragut West Knox chamber businesses can visit farragutchamber. com/events and click for the June 29 event starting at 5pm.

Young Professionals Open Mic Night a Success

West Under 40's young professionals weren't sure what to expect from their Open Mic Night presented by Epic Nine Marketing Outfitters on Wednesday, June 9 but by the end of the evening it was clearly a success.

The Open Mic Night, headed by committee member Jared Butler-Payteva, was the young professional group's first fully open in-person event for 2021. West Under 40 wanted to do something fun and unique to reintroduce the group (and area YPs) to the community after a year of nearly all virtual programs. The event was hosted at Hexagon Brewery and gave any YP the chance to show off whatever talent they had: magic, music/song, poetry, whatever.

A crowd of approximately 40 quickly settled in, summoned up some courage and cheered on friends and strangers as they delivered slam poetry, sang, played instruments and even some stand-up comedy. The chamber's young business intern helped emcee acts and kept the crowd laughing with a slew of jokes. Jeremy LaDuke-Epic Nine helped award the grand prize—a brand new iPad—to singer Mikenna Varvel-PCS, Inc. but even after the official award was won, the sponsor, Jeremy LaDuke-Epic Nine, and Jared Butler-Payteva, build up suspense before awarding the grand prize of a new iPad.

Welcome Back Renewing Members!

The Farragut/West Knox Chamber welcomes back these businesses who have renewed their investment in the Chamber as of this past May. We are privileged to count them as Farragut/West Knox Chamber of Commerce members! We urge members to patronize one another when the goods or services a member can provide are needed. It is also our hope that area residents recognize the commitment a business makes to its community when it becomes part of its local chamber of commerce and reward that commitment with their patronage.

A special thank you goes to these renewing members who are continuing their support of our chamber and the businesses it serves through their above and beyond Enterprise Membership:
