Terse talk amid pending 'property rights' lawsuit

MICHELLE HOLLENHEAD

mhollenhead@farragutpress.com

A pending lawsuit from Farragut residents Steve and Virginia "Ginny" Williams aimed at the Town of Farragut "to protect their property rights" led to a terse exchange between the developer's wife and Town Mayor Ron Williams during the Tuesday, Aug. 31, Town Staff/Developer meeting.

The Williams couple (no relation to Farragut's mayor), who are investigating what is required to subdivide their property along Evans Road into estate-sized lots, are asking for a amendment to the Town's subdivision regulations to state: "In the event that a subdivision will have ten (10) or less dwelling units on an average density of one (1) dwelling unit per 4.0 acres, then the (Farragut Municpal) Planning Commission shall not require the subdivision to (i) provide for both vehicular and pedestrian/ shared-use path connectivity to abutting properties or (ii) have more than one public street vehicular access into and out of the development."

"Basically, this would prevent (FMPC) from requiring connectivity between subdivisions," said Mark Shipley, Town Community Development director.

'Impact on learning' among Horn reasons against mask mandate

Tipping the scale by voting not to require masks be worn on Knox County Schools campuses — with those votes prevailing

5-4 during a special-called Knox County Board of Education session — included Susan Horn, 5th District representative (Farragut schools rep) and outgoing BOE chair.

About her vote, which came during the Wednesday, Sept. 1, session lasting more than six-and-one-half hours, Horn said it was made "for several reasons."

Those included combining constituent feedback with doing "a lot of research; I looked at a lot of studies. ... The hard thing about it, you can find medical experts on both sides of the issue," Horn said.

Horn

"I've heard from a lot of parents whose children struggled with a mask and were very anxious, and they were very concerned about their kids going back to school wearing masks," she added.

Moreover, "I heard from teachers who said it was impacting students' ability to learn," Horn said. "I think the risk-benefit analysis that each family must decide weighed really high in my decision-making.

"I think, ultimately at this point, parents have the choice as to whether their children wear a mask or not. And I think that re-

A pedestrian killed early Tuesday, Aug. 31, on Parkside Drive has been identified by Knox County Sheriff's Office as Mark E. Phelan, 34, of Wartburg.

According to the incident report, a Panera-owned tractor trailer driven by Eugene Glover of College Park, Georgia, was traveling eastbound near 11454 Parkside Drive when he encountered Phelan "laying in the inside lane of Parkside Drive.

"The driver was unable to see the pedestrian lying in the roadway due to heavy rains and fog," the report continued. Additionally, "the pedestrian had on dark clothing and (had a) dark backpack."

While Glover was not suspected of any drug or alcohol usage, the victim was suspected of "illegal drug use," stated the report, and toxicology testing was performed posthumously.

No charges were filed against the truck driver.

Pence is new Town HR hire

TAMMY CHEEK

tcheek@farragutpress.com

Town of Farragut staff recently welcomed Michelle Pence as its new human resources director.

"Michelle is a welcome addition to the Town of Farragut," Town administrator David Smoak said. As a SPHR-certified professional in the field of human resources, she will be a valuable resource for our staff in all employment matters."

Pence

"It's very much a family atmosphere, which is nice, even being the new one," said Pence, an Indiana native with 18 years experience in the human resources field.

"One of the biggest things I want to see is to increase the training within the Town - more specialized training — I don't want to take way from anything Janet (Curry) did," she added. 'And then just to continue to be a resource for all the employees.

Pence replaces Curry, who retired Monday, Aug. 16, after serving as the Town's HR director for 13 years Saying she "had a week" to learn alongside Curry, Pence added, "Janet left a really good, solid foundation to come upon.

KCSOreports

• At 2:02 p.m., Sunday, Aug. 29, a Knox County Sheriff's Office unit responded to a North Monticello Drive residence in response to a domestic disturbance. Complainant, who turned out to be the eventual arrestee, said he had been struck by a cane in the back of the head by his ex-wife. Eventual arrestee said "he was trying to leave the residence when the victim attempted to grab his cell phone, which is when he turned and grabbed her by the wrist," the report stated.

He said she proceeded to hit him with her cane after he grabbed her. Eventual arrestee had no visible injuries to the back of his head. He said the victim was upset that he had made the decision to pack his belongings and leave. Victim said she and the arrestee had been in an argument about him not paying his lease. While the eventual arrestee was in the garage, the victim said she attempted to put a piece of paper in the arrestee's pocket containing the expenses he owed her when he grabbed her by the wrist and attempted to throw her to the ground. Victim said this is when she proceeded to hit him with her cane in self-defense.

'Victim had visible, fresh bruising along her right forearm that was consistent with her statement," the report stated. Eventual arrestee "had a small laceration on the top of his left hand that he said occurred when he was loading his belongings into his car." AMR responded to the scene. Arrestee was taken into custody without incident and was transported to Roger D. Wilson Detention Facility. Victim refused medical treatment but accepted transportation to a safe location.

Tips for those immunocompromised with 3rd COVID-19 booster now ready

With the Biden Administration encouraging and approving COVID-19 booster shots beginning in September for those already vaccinated, the Knox County Health Department is echoing Centers for Disease Control recommendations that those who are immunocompromised receive a third shot sooner.

"What has currently been approved is an additional (third) dose of mRNA vaccine for those who are moderately and severely immunocompromised, said Kelsey Wilson, division director of communications for KCHD. "This is not a booster dose. An additional dose is for when the initial immune response following a primary vaccine series is likely to be insufficient, which is the case for those who are immunocompromised. A booster dose is when the initial sufficient immune response to a primary vaccine series is likely to have waned over time.

"This additional dose for those who are immunocompromised should be administered at least 28 days after the completion of the initial vaccine series," she added.

"We are urging those who think they may qualify for a third dose of the Pfizer or Moderna COVID-19 vaccine to speak with their provider. If they qualify, make plans to get the third dose with their provider as the provider is most familiar with the individual's medical history.

Third dose qualifiers

She further shared that "the CDC states individuals with the following conditions qualify for a third dose:"

· Those receiving active cancer treatment for tumors or cancers of the blood:

 Those who have received an organ transplant and are taking medicine to suppress the immune system:

 Those who have received a stem cell transplant within the last two years or are taking medicine to suppress the immune system;

 Those who have moderate or severe primary immunodeficiency (such as DiGeorge syndrome or Wiskott-Aldrich syndrome);

 Those with advanced or untreated HIV infection: and

 Those who are undergoing active treatment with high-dose corticosteroids or other drugs that may suppress your immune response.

For love of roses: Pyle's mom-inspired boutique

Farragut resident Barbara Pyle shows off some of the unique items she sells through her online business, Smoky Rose Boutique.

mhollenhead@farragutpress.com

Farragut mom Barbara Pyle's COVID-19 isolation and post-partum issues birthed a thriving online business named in honor and memory of her mom.

'She loved roses," said Pyle of the inspiration behind naming her shop Smoky Rose Boutique, which opened July 1.

The mother of four boys really got bitten by the business bug last year during pandemic lockdowns.

"It was the first time I had ever experienced post-partum depression," she said, noting it followed the birth of her youngest child.

"We had only just moved to our new house in Farragut, too, then COVID shutdowns hit me really hard," Pyle added.

"I was always home, but wanted something to do.'

Since Pyle enjoyed the experience of "making my own stuff," she invested in a Cricrit, a computer-controlled cutting machine that slices through a variety of materials.

Pyle said she and her sons enjoyed the variety of items she could make, many of which she shared before realizing maybe she should start a business.

"One thing I really enjoy is helping others,"

Additionally, the couple is asking for "other changes to subdivision regulations to accommodate estate-size lot subdivisions," most of which referenced recent Board of Mayor and Aldermen variance approvals granted to the Keeney Property off Union Road, including: reduction of right-of-way to 40 feet; rural cross-section road 20 feet-wide, no curbs, open ditch drainage system; no pedestrian/shared-use path connectivity to abutting properties; no sidewalk, pedestrian/shared-use connectivity on the connection road; waiver of 10 percent open space required in association with a subdivision; and a variance from 500-foot maximum length of street (or) cul-de-sac to allow streets up to 1,000foot length, as measured from connection to existing public street to center line of cul-de-sac or equal fire truck-approved turning design.

Steve Williams also is requesting an option to have a private gated road maintained by homeowners' association of residents on said road. Currently, connectivity is required for all developments, but those with fewer than 30 lots may request a variance from the Planning Commission and has been granted many times. Additionally, property owners are permitted to request additional variances.

While Shipley said staff could support the first portion of the request, "there are a few reasons why from a staff perspective, we wouldn't support the second part of this request. For one thing, it's unnecessary. The Planning Commission already has pretty clear parameters where they could waive connectivity requirements.

"It seems to be a little overreaching," he added. "I understand where you are coming from – it doesn't make sense to me to make somebody deal with a bunch of streets for four- or fiveacre lots — that's why we've granted variances on these projects in the past. And the point is we use logic, and looked at these things on a case-by-case basis, and that's language we have already in place."

"You say the Planning Commission can grant variances to a landowner, but that's a maybe," Steve Williams said. "And to take our farm and put it into estate-sized lots, the Town should give a right to some of these, rather than (us) begging for them.

"You could have turned (Keeney property owner) down — there is no opportunity (for variances) other than begging for it."

"The whole definition of estate-sized lot, acreage, is more than just a small lot," Ginny Williams said. "It also means privacy. It's very evident, on our street on Evans Road, if it is not a development, a subdivision, like The Farm (at Willow Creek) or the (Cottages at Pryse Farm) on the far end — our best friends, the Forresters, developed that — they didn't have to have sidewalks or walking trail."

Shipley explained that development was constructed before Town connectivity requirements were in place.

"No one would buy and pay that kind of money for an estate lot and have people be able, with 200-some odd lots behind them now, walking through their front yard," Ginny Williams said. "I feel you are saying (these amendments would be) too overreaching on your Planning Commission, but on the residents' side you are overreaching to us." "You are asking us to change something that's working right now, and it works OK," Mayor Williams said. "What Mark's talking about, what we have (with) walking trails and all, is designed to connect our town."

"I'm talking about estate-sized lots you say the Town wants — that is already working you are asking to change that so that new estate lots have to have other people walking through it," Ginny Williams said.

"Ma'am, if you look at the way its written, and you look at all the (developments) he's talking about, we've looked at each one with a clean sheet of paper — that's how we look at it, and that's what I do - and you see different decisions on every single one of them. A good example is the Keeney property," Mayor Williams said.

"I was not planning on saying anything about this because of pending litigation that Mr. Williams has, but I think you are off on the wrong trail here because what we are doing here is what we've been doing for a lot of years. This is not something that's brand new," he added.

Before Ginny Williams began speaking again, Mayor Williams stood up and left the room, as did Aldermen Ron Pinchok, Drew Burnette and FMPC Commissioner Jon Greene.

After the meeting, Mayor Williams said, "They are asking for something we are not going to do. And if you are asking someone to do something, you don't sue them.

"There is nothing from him or her in front of us to look at — for me to discuss hypothetical, I just don't do that," the mayor added.

When asked about any pending ligation against the Town, Steve Williams stated in an e-mail, "I'd rather not comment on legal action now since we are trying to work with the Town to find common ground. However, I was shocked and disappointed at the mayor's rudeness to my wife when she spoke at the meeting.

"He showed his disgust for her viewpoint, slammed his notebook closed and stomped out. It seemed he did not respect a woman's viewpoint and right to share her ideas in the public square," he added.

The real story of that meeting was the attitude of our leaders and their disgust and contempt for differing points of view. Neither the mayor nor any of the alderman present, even the ones that represent us on the south side, took the opportunity to say hello or offer to work for a solution at the meeting. The mayor and all aldermen got up and walked out with no words or interaction with us. We are in a sad place in Farragut where leaders disrespect women's right to speak, refuse to engage in open discussion of ideas and despise the people they represent."

Mayor Williams said he had no disrespect for Steve Williams or his wife. "I am sorry to him if I appeared rude or disrespectful," he said. "But the meeting was over. I wasn't the only one who got up to leave.

"Plus, our attorney Tom Hale was not present.'

Regarding the specific changes he and his wife are asking for, Steve Williams said, "We feel there should be certainty in the regulations. Now there's no consistent application of connection for roads, walking trails and many regulations.

• I'm a little frustrated to find out that the detour for Virtue Road is being repaved. This is not good planning. How in the world do you do a paving project on a detour road? I wish the Town of Farragut would communicate with its citizens better and let them know that this was a possibility. I don't think any group of citizens would have been happy with this. This is just not good planning.

• In response to the recent Mary Phillips letter (Aug. 19 issue) and the Grant King response (Aug. 26 issue), perhaps she exaggerated her comment about unvaccinated will die, but his comment about COVID mutating faster than rabbits multiply is much the same. More serious are his clear misstatements about, 1, the vaccine maybe making people susceptible to COVID, that's just utter nonsense; No. 2, not having a test for the (Delta) variant is not part of the routine testing for presence of COVID, but is a separate (inaudible) test to identify the relevant statistical samples for evaluation of the response. I don't know, but I don't think that the person being tested ever finds out what variant he has; No. 3, saying PCR can't distinguish between COVID and the flu is another clear misstatement, while the other tests are now capable of telling you which disease you have among COVID, flu and RSV. The PCR clearly reveals if there's presence of COVID ... farragutpress should fact-check such ridiculous comments.

Taking feedback she got from parents and teachers in her district on both sides of the issue, "I think it might have been a little more than 50-50" against the mask mandate, Horn said.

However, when accessing the countywide feedback she got, "It was probably about 50-50," the former BOE chair added.

Looking back on the mask mandate during the 2020-21 school year, "I think masks became very political when they were mandated," Horn said. "... When government mandates something it does become political."

But in late August, "the state changed their mind," she said, leaving many teachers scrambling to establish Canvas connections with off-campus students.

"I think that is what is stressful for teachers right now," Horn added, also noting that in addition to COVID "there's Strep (throat), there's stomach viruses, there's several things going around. So there's a lot of kids out, and a lot of teachers out.

Pyle started with an Etsy shop, selling personalized items she decorated, but eventually realized she wanted to branch out to offer other products and lines.

"Right now, we have graphic T-shirts, handbags and boutique items, such as earrings and shoes," Pyle said of her current inventory, which also includes seasonal fall and Halloween-specific clothing and even candles and scented waxes. "I am very picky about the quality of what we offer. We recently got a shipment of Tshirts that I sent back because they were just not the best. If I don't like it, I won't sell it."

Smoky Rose Boutique also has coasters, personalized mugs and tumblers, necklaces, bracelets, dresses, hats and outerwear.

Pyle focuses on funny, uplifting slogans and mottos adorning her products, and she offers large and plus-sizes.

"I do focus on making sure we have enough sizes for everyone," she said. "I also really want people to feel comfortable being themselves and buy things that they feel happy about.

"My main slogan is 'Be Your Own Kind of Beautiful.' I think a lot of people don't realize they don't need to change something in order to be beautiful — they are already beautiful."

Pyle has been marketing the business heavily through social media, including Facebook, Instagram, Tik-Tok and Pinterest.

"Everything is online right now, but we are hoping next year to have an actual brickand-mortar shop," she said, adding deliveries are charged a small fee, but returns and exchanges "are no problem."

While running the business out of her home, Pyle also recently started working on her Master's degree in social work, building on a background in human resources and accounting. "I was the first person in my family to get a GED, and I was the first to go to college," she said.

However, the current owner decided to bring back Oktoberfest to bring people together.

"We thought that we could bring the community back again as the pandemic is slowing down. People are being vaccinated, and people are fed up with being in closed environments," he said. "We thought it was time to have a festival to be free and enjoy a music weekend."

Festival-goers can stay cool under a 120-foot tent and enjoy live music on stage. Additionally, there will be six to eight varieties of true German import beers and German fare, such as bratwurst, schnitzel, turkey legs, quarter-pounder hot dogs, wings, burgers and smoked pulled pork. Accompanying sides are German potato salad, red cabbage, a special recipe sauerkraut and French fries.

For children, there will be chicken tenders, hotdogs and fries, as well as slides and rides (on a) playground.

There is a $10 attendance fee, which covers the performances.

Beverages and food are available for purchase. Tickets are available for purchase in advance at Mind Yer P's and Q's.

Weekend entertainment includes: local artist Jay Storm on Friday evening; Chelsea Berry of Maryville, the Polka Kings, Liquid Velvet and Dre Hilton on Saturday; and the Polka Kings, Dre Hilton and K-Town on Sunday.

Parking and security will be available. Regarding masks, MYPsQs encourages people to "take whatever precautions they deem necessary for their own health.'

HARDIN VALLEY Trey Byrd Cornhole Benefit

In support of a Hardin Valley Academy alumnus facing huge medical bills following an accident while on vacation in Florida during the Memorial Day weekend, HVA alumni, teachers, administrators, parents and students came together to host Hardin Valley Trey Byrd Cornhole Benefit Saturday afternoon, Aug. 21, in the school's upper parking lot.

With 68 participants forming 34 two-person teams, "close to $3,000" was raised for Trey Byrd, a 2011 HVA graduate paralyzed from the waist down following a diving accident, said Lee Warren, a 2012 graduate and friend of Byrd's — both former Hawks football teammates — who spearheaded the Benefit effort.

"We thought it went really well," Warren added. "We had a really good turnout; it was a great weather day. The Byrd family was there minus Trey, and they were very appreciative, very happy of how it went."

Winning teams in the two tournament categories — Matthew Eldridge and Walker Lockhart in 17-and-Under; and Noah Fleming and Mike Phelps in 18-and-Over — each received $100.

However, "The cool thing is, both winners donated that money back," Warren said. As for Byrd's condition, especially in regard to his upper body, "My understanding is that he has been progressing," Warren said. "He's been moved to an apartment now for rehab."

Victor Ashe Park became "Valley" Ashe Park Saturday, Sept. 4, thanks to an almost unheard-of accomplishment by one community's crosscountry programs.

All eight team champions crowned during 2021 Victor

Ashe Park Classic came from Hardin Valley — which featured teams third- through 12th-grade from the Nashville area, Tri-Cities and Chattanooga — almost 40 total.

Champions were Hardin Valley Academy's varsity girls and boys along with HVA's junior varsity teams, plus Hardin Valley Middle School's and Hardin Valley Elementary School's boys and girls.

The HVA Lady Hawks edged Girls Preparatory School of Chattanooga 60-72, with Bearden finishing seventh.

Hardin Valley's boys, defending Division I Large School state champs, easily won versus runner-up Maryville 26-78, with the BHS Bulldogs claiming eighth-place.

On the JV level, HVA's boys earned six of the top seven finishes individually, capturing the top spot 15-55 versus runner-up Maryville. Freshman champ Gabriel Allen (17:50.64) led these Hawks.

The Lady Hawks junior varsity team slid past runner-up GPS 23-40.

Despite seeing his team drop its third consecutive game to open the season, longtime Farragut football head coach Eddie Courtney remained upbeat.

"I really think good things are about to happen for this football team," Courtney said after the Admirals came up on the short end of a lopsided 42-14 Region 2-6A decision against state powerhouse Maryville Friday night, Sept. 3, at Bill Clabo Field. "We're slowly improving.

HARDIN VALLEY — Bearden completed just four passes for 10 yards — yet won by 35 points at rival Hardin Valley Academy.

A half-dozen big plays told the story, as the Bulldogs improved to 2-1 while winning its Region 2-6A opener, 42-7, Friday evening, Sept. 3.

Four special teams plays either directly or indirectly led to 28 Bearden points, courtesy of three disastrous Hawks punt attempts and HVA's second-half kickoff, which Sun Yee Mitchum returned 96 yards for a touchdown.

Defensively for BHS, Kai Young took a deflected deep pass and raced 42-yards for an interception touchdown return.

The big scoring play offensively for the visitors was Nicco Young's 84-yard scoring run.

One key to Bearden's special teams success was senior kicker/defensive back Ethan Ford, who blocked a punt that teammate Cody Clough recovered in the end zone for a touchdown; saved a touchdown when Hawk Ryan Nichol returned a kickoff 54 yards to the BHS 45; kicked six extra points and had two touchback kickoffs.

"The team came out with a lot of intensity," Ford said. "... For the first regional game, we knew it was important."

Rolling up the goals, BHS 3-0 hosting Invitational

KEATON SHILLINGS

Correspondent

In its most dominant Bearden Invitational effort, the host BHS Lady Bulldogs would roll past the Hendersonville Commandos Saturday evening, Sept. 4, that sported perfect conditions for soccer.

The 9-0 victory — with only a 20-minute second half — took place on day three of the Invitational, and was a "commanding" performance for Bearden, which ended the weekend 8-0-1.

Throughout the majority of the game, the maroon and silver of Bearden constantly flashed back and forth on their attacking end. Every touch of the ball became crisper and cleaner with every minute. It didn't take long for one of the Lady Bulldog seniors, Sarah Altshuler, to mark the first goal in a litany of efforts. Bearden would finish the first half with four more goals, giving them a comfortable lead into halftime. Brinley Murphy, Becca Roth and Alivia Scott combined to knock home the remaining four goals, with Murphy bagging two.

Hendersonville head coach Devin Woodard said her unit needed some more "discipline" and "attention to detail" when it came to controlling the game.

The shortened 20-minute second half comprised four more goals from Bearden in roughly five-minute intervals. The eighth goal of the match, scored by Murphy, gave her four on the night.

"Honestly, it was a better result than I thought because this was our third game," she said. "I'm really proud of the team and how well we worked together today."

"One of our pregame goals was to come out and focus on the final third and make sure we are putting some balls away," said Ryan Radcliffe, Lady Bulldogs head coach "We had some good individual standouts. It helps when you have some of your nucleus stepping up and showing great things."

When asked about his team's depth, Radcliffe said "We're probably two or three deep in each position, so that creates some competition for places and they know it. ... I think that the competitive nature is what breeds the best, and I think that's what you see on the field."

Offensive woes solved vs. Notre Dame for Lady Ads

KEN LAY Correspondent

KNOXVILLE --- After being held scoreless for nearly its first 125 minutes of the Bearden Invitational, the Farragut High School girls soccer team finally found the back of an opponent's net in a match Sunday, Sept. 5.

The Lady Admirals answered an early wake-up call Sunday morning to tangle with Chattanooga Notre Dame. It would take a while, but the FHS offense finally awoke from its doldrums after halftime. Annabelle Ekern opened the scoring in the 45th minute against Notre Dame, and Farragut would get a pair of goals from Savannah Noble in a 3-0 victory.

The win represented the fourth clean sheet for Lady Admirals senior goalkeeper Caroline Ekern, an All-state performer in 2020.

Farragut (5-1-1) played Science Hill to a 0-0 draw Saturday afternoon, Sept. 5, at BHS in a defensive struggle. Ekern, however, stopped what scoring chances that the Lady Hilltoppers (4-1-1) could muster en route to notching her third shutout of 2021.

"We need to focus more on finishing and scoring goals," FHS second-year head coach Kristen Lyons said after the Lady Admirals' draw against Science Hill, one of the top teams from Northeast Tennessee. "I'm not really worried about it. We just need to focus more on it.

"We've been working more on keeping our defensive shape.

starting at the HVA 21, Bearden got the scoring underway with Young's 10-yard TD run. After a bad punt snap left Bearden at the Hawks 2, Young scored from 1 yard out.

"We really came together as a team. ... Our (first-string) defense shut them out, and special teams came away big tonight," said Seth Arana, senior runningback/linebacker.

"We held them to zero when the starting lineup was in. Everybody played hard. Everybody played outstanding," said Kam Smith, senior defensive tackle whose four tackles included two sacks.

Preston LaBanca also had an interception for Bearden. "We scored in all three phases of the game, that's pretty confidence-building," Bulldogs head coach Morgan Shinlever said. "We stunk it up, especially in special teams and offense," HVA head coach Mike Potter said about his team (0-3, 0-1) Its lone score was a 10-yard TD pass from quarterback Caleb Smith to Luca Moro.

However, after halftime, Maryville scored on its first offensive play of the third frame when Noah Vaughn scampered 80 yards for a score to give the Rebels a 28-0 lead with 11:46 left in the stanza.

KNOXVILLE — Hardin Valley Academy girls soccer head coach Jessie Stephens knew her Lady Hawks faced some stiff tests late last week as they made their annual trip to the Bearden Invitational.

What's more, the Lady Hawks were short-handed due to illness — but they played valiantly and went unbeaten while picking up win No. 1.

Hardin Valley closed the weekend event Sunday afternoon with a 0-0 draw versus Science Hill Sunday, Sept. 5. Junior goalkeeper Emma Cooke made nine point-blank saves against SHHS (4-1-2).

Stephens also had high praise for Norah Jacomen, Claire Palya and Reese Williams. "Those four players ... have done a really good job leading our team, both on the field and off," Stephens said.

Two World War II veterans and Farragut residents will be among the honored guests during an upcoming, and very special, Alzheimer's Tennessee fundraiser.

Henry "Hank" Miller and Alexander Dumas will be front and center during "An Evening at Historic Westwood with author Chris Edmonds" Tuesday, Sept. 21.

The entire event has a WWII theme, beginning with Edmonds' personal story of discovery after he inherited the wartime diary of his dad, Master Sgt. Roddy Edmonds, only to find in the last days of the War a German officer aimed his pistol at his father, yet the master sergeant put his own safety aside to save the lives of 200 Jewish soldiers. Roddy Edmonds has since been posthumously honored for his heroism and bravery.

Those attending the event also will experience a WWII checkpoint, enjoy '40s-era music, a strolling violinist, period-dressed military re-enactors and even an interlude of patriotic music performed by Knoxville Opera's creative director Maestro Brian Salesky.

Tickets for the event are $125 for VIP Guests, who will receive a personally-autographed copy of Edmonds book, "No Surrender," early access to the event and historic Westwood tours beginning at 5 p.m., along with two drink tickets and individual charcuterie nosh boxes.

Regular admission tickets are $75, with tours beginning at 6 p.m.

Treat pet's 'COVID-15' with diet, exercise

Q: A friend was telling me that she and her Lab had both gained weight over the last year, calling it "the COVID-15." Seriously, is that a real thing? W.S., Farragut

A: Yes, I have heard this term at my office and have noticed that some of our patients have gained weight during the pandemic. Some owners are still working remotely and admit to giving more daily snacks, or simply being more sedentary with their pet.

Veterinarians are often asked how to tell if their pet is overweight. Because of the great differences in sizes and Stephanie Myers Ask the Vet breeds of dogs, we use some generalities to gauge ideal weight (instead of the human BMI scale). If you stand behind or above your pet, you should be able to see a waist. Pet owners should be able to feel his or her ribs easily, but not see them. Neither dogs nor cats should have a rounded or enlarged abdomen.

If you think your pet is overweight, see your veterinarian to rule out medical problems, such as hypothyroidism. Your veterinarian can also help you set a target weight for your pet and plan a safe diet and exercise program. As we have all heard, less calories and more exercise are ultimately necessary for weight loss.

It does take time and effort to help your pet be healthy and stay healthy. Walks with your pet can be great bonding time. And with fall around the corner, it's the perfect time to start exercising with your pet in beautiful East Tennessee.

If you have questions about your pet, you may e-mail Dr. Myers are lenoircityac@gmail.com

Once inside, guests will experience the energy of a Tennessee hero at gunpoint, view an extensive private collection of WWII war relics and see a 14-minute film, "Following in the Footsteps of My Father."

The evening's program will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Historic Westwood, 3425 Kingston Pike, is the former home, studio and current gallery of the late Adelia Armstrong Lutz.

Also during the evening, a painting by Alex, "The Great Panda of Asia," will be auctioned in the east parlor, with proceeds going to Alzheimer's Tennessee.

"Hank" Miller

Hank, 94, moved to The Villages of Farragut retirement community earlier this year from Huntsville, Alabama, where he and his late wife, Judy, had lived since 1980 when he retired after nearly 40 years of U.S. military service.

Originally from Hermosa Beach, California, Hank enlisted in the Navy in 1944 and saw active duty in the Pacific theater.

He served on a destroyer for aircraft carriers and participated in "a couple" of raids on Tokyo Bay.

After the war, he remained in the Navy, stationed at Yokohama, Osaga and Nagasaki.

"The effects of the A Bomb on Nagasaki was not nearly as extensive as Hiroshima," Hank recalled. "It was more hilly, whereas Hiroshima was flat."

After returning home, Hank transferred to the Army.

"I liked the service, I just didn't like the Navy," he said with a smile. "I also knew if I wanted to get married and have a family, I didn't want to be so far away. I'm very glad I did."

He married Judy in 1952, just seven months after they first met in Fort Knox, Kentucky, and the couple spent nearly 30 years following his various Army assignments both stateside and abroad — including a stint in Saudi Arabia — while raising two daughters, Mary Maggie Bales and Alice Ann Miller, both of whom now live in Farragut.

After Judy passed away, Hank had plans to move to the area, but contracting COVID-19 in December sped up his time frame. After recuperating, he then needed heart valve replacement, a procedure he underwent at Parkwest Medical Center.

Several weeks of rehab followed before moving to The Villages in April, just after his 94th birthday.

Roddie Edmonds during WWII

He has enjoyed living closer to his daughters, and embraced life at the Villages, where he has been working to re-establish a physical morning regimen, which before COVID included 10 pushups and various other exercises.

"I have lived a clean life and led a good life," said Hank, who also has four grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren. "If I picked anytime outside my marriage to highlight, it would be the chance I had to grow up at the beach.

"That was wonderful, but post-marriage, I really enjoyed my different assignments, visiting and being assigned to different countries and the traveling my wife and I got to do."

Alex Dumas

Alex, a well-known artist, has lived in the Farragut area since before the Town was incorporated, having moved here in 1960.

A native of Detroit, Michigan, he taught himself to paint and draw after serving as a hospital corpsman in the Navy at the tail-end of WWII, from 1945 to 1949.

He also served in the Tennessee State Guard for 16 years and retired as a major.

After working in several fields, Alex has been a fulltime free-lance artist since the late 1960s.

While he began painting wildlife and still portraits, Alex has become regionally well-known for his poignant and realistic war-themed paintings, and has had several art shows.

Much of his work is now displayed in Farragut Museum. "I don't believe I'm responsible for the paintings," Alex said in a previous farragutpress interview.

"The Good Lord had a big hand in it. I talked to Him the whole time I was painting them."

Although he did not see combat, Alex saw patients return home with their injuries, and his wartime paintings are based on actual photographs from battles.

Additionally, he has branched out over the years, offering paintings to help raise funds for various causes, including Zoo Knoxville and the CADES program at Concord United Methodist Church, where he attends.

after they were given to Shriner Bill Walton, an elder at Union Cumberland Presbyterian Church where the quilting group holds it monthly meetings.

The quilts were just one of three community projects undertaken by KAQF since January. The others include sewing reusable sanitary pads for women in Kenya and sewing Quilts of Valor for current or former members of the military.

"We have a remarkable group," Anders said. "I know. beyond the shadow of a doubt, we are doing what the good Lord wants us to do."

For one thing, "all of our materials have been provided," Anders also pointed out. "God has been providing everything to us. I get chills just thinking about it."

The group also has five members who own long-arm quilting machines, each stitching the finished quilt tops.

'We are just very blessed," Anders said.

"I like to say, 'God, you keep providing and we will keep plugging along."

Irish, Webb 1-2 on Scoreboard with strong showings

Three area teams solidified the top three places on the PureMagic How the West Was Won Scoreboard — two winning in blowouts (Webb School of Knoxville and Bearden; see BHS details on page 1B) while a third dominated the second half.

On the brink of falling behind by two touchdowns against Division II-AAA power Baylor, Knoxville Catholic enjoyed a game-changing play late in the first half.

Sam O'Leary's 99-yard interception return for a touchdown tied this huge East Region showdown 21-21.

From that point, the Fighting Irish defense allowed the Red Raiders just 17 yards of total offense — and while Baylor star runningback Caleb Hampton rushed for 192 yards in the first half, he was held to just 11 after the break.

As a result, KCHS stayed unbeaten at 3-0, while remaining atop the PureMagic Scoreboard standings, with a 31-21 victory Friday evening, Sept. 3, in Blaine Stadium.

Baylor fell to 2-1, 0-1.

Catholic linebacker Eli Jones had a team-leading 17 total stops, 10 solo. Linebackers Raaphell Mayes and Spencer Margolis added 11 and 10 total tackles, respectively. Defensive back Brodrick Gipson recovered a fumble, while DB Tommy Winton also grabbed an interception.

Irish runningback Keondré Jarmon scored a pair of touchdowns, rushing 22 times for 112 yards. Jones added a 1-yard TD run.

Catholic freshman quarterback Jayden Neal was 15-of-31 passing for 158 yards.

His 39-yard toss to Winton (7 catches for 77 yards) placed Catholic in the red zone late in the fourth quarter while leading 28-21. Kicker Brock Taylor booted a 38-yard field goal to give KCHS a two-score lead with just two minutes remaining.

Winning big

Dave Meske's Spartans (2-1, 1-0) wasted no time controlling play against Division II-AA East Region rival Chattanooga

Notre Dame (1-2, 0-1), rolling to a 44-0 victory Friday night in the stadium named in Meske's honor.

Webb quarterback Charlie Robinson was on fire, tossing four touchdown passes while completing 23-of-38 passes for 303 yards — plus 74 yards rushing, which produced another TD.

Brandon Winton's eight catches for 128 yards included a pair of scoring receptions, while Spartans teammates Jalen Hill (five catches for 32 yards) and Shavar Young (three for 49) each grabbed a touchdown pass.

Defensively, junior linebacker Joey Bonifacio led in total stops with nine while also recording a safety. Ari Klasky added eight total stops, which included a sack, while Leo Bonifacio and Ethan Klasky (four total tackles each) also recorded sacks. Ethan Klasky also recovered a fumble.

Garrett Webb grabbed an interception and went 28 yards. Kicker Otto Niendorff was 6-for-6 on extra points.

Member advice on hot housing market

Bv Eric Whitener, The Knox Fox Real Estate Group

market, the more a buyer will be willing selling, provide you with the local market information you need, and offer a comprehensive marketing plan and strategy to help you reach your goals. Who you choose to represent you in the sale of your home matters. The wrong agent and the wrong strategy could cost you thousands of dollars. Call The Knox Fox Real Estate Group, your Farragut experts, if you are interested in selling while the market is in your favor.

You don't have to search hard to find information about the current housing market and there are plenty of opinions on what's going to happen next. With that said, here are FIVE things to consider when making the decision to sell your home

1. Real Estate is local, yet most news sources report on the real estate market on a national level. When looking for valuable information that may impact your sale, you want the most local information available.

2. Know the difference between a seller's market and a buyer's market. The real estate market constantly changes. Month to month the market can change enough to have an impact on your selling strategy.

3. When selling a home, the condition of the home matters, even in a seller's market. The bottom line is this: the better condition your home is in when it goes on the

to pay for it. Low inventory/high demand markets do increase a seller's chances of selling at a good price, even when they have deferred home maintenance items, but they do not necessarily mean you'll sell at the same price as similar homes in better condition.

4. The list price is more than a number, it's part of the selling strategy. Overpricing your home can vastly change the way the market responds to your home, just like underpricing your home can. Pricing your home should be strategic and that strategy should produce a desired outcome.

5. Marketing matters all the time. When selling a home, it doesn't matter if the market is hot or not, you always want a marketing strategy that gives you the best chances of reaching your desired goal.

Selling your home is a big decision with many factors to consider. Your Real Estate Agent should be a trusted advisor that can help you weigh the pros and cons of

In partnership with the Knoxville Small Business Development Center and the Farragut West Knox Chamber of Commerce, the Town of Farragut is hosting a free, onehour course covering the basics of starting a business. The class will be repeated monthly through December. It will cover different forms of business organization, tax requirements, business licenses, and financing options. Classes are 10-11 a.m. on Wednesdays - Sept. 1, Oct. 6, Nov. 3, and Dec. 1. Register online townoffarragut.org/farragutbusinessclass. For more information, please contact Town of Farragut Business Liaison Trevor Hobbs at 865-966-7057 or thobbs@townoffarragut.org.

One of the easiest ways to get help is by dialing 2-1-1, Tennessee's community services help line. When you call, you'll get a real person, one who is trained to help you sort out your needs and then give you phone numbers and addresses of the closest places where you can get help. 2-1-1 has a database of more than 10,000 health and human services programs, cross-referenced for all sorts of keywords. So don't worry if you don't know what type of service you need or the name of an agency just talk with the specialist at the other end of the line and she or he can help you find what you need. All calls are free and completely confidential. Hours vary by location.

89% of online consumers will opt to go with a competitor after a bad experience with your website! Unfortunately, there are many small businesses out there losing business thanks to badly designed cookiecutter-style websites that just don't meet their needs. bluedress IN-TERNET MARKETING[®] wants to change that! For more information, call (865) 326-3614. Ending the evening with a team photo is Jeff Jeter, John Goethert, Zach Cooper, Amy Ahrens, April Damron, Jillian Lane, Emily Goodbread, Justin Goodbread, and Don Bateman.

Ambassador Kim Moye- Mortgage Investors Group welcomes Dr. Saleh Shahid- Carington Health Services, PLLC and his son, Sameer.

Due to the COVID pandemic, ACS says that local research being done right here in East TN for multiple cancers was set back nearly 10 years due reductions in funding and fundraising. This "bucket" is the most underfunded of ACS' many needs and is where 10% of ticket and item sales will go.

Another 10% will benefit Volunteer Ministry Center who works to end homelessness in Knox County, with a firm focus on permanent housing as a solution. To date, over 90% of their clients have maintained their housing for over one year. The chamber's auction donation will target VMC's newest permanent supportive housing, Caswell Manor, broke ground recently, but due to fast-rising construction costs, funds are still needed to keep the project on track. Caswell Manor will offer 48 onebedroom apartments which will become the first home in some time for individuals experiencing homelessness, and will put them on the path back to stability.

This annual event is also integral to making sure the Chamber can keep providing the maximum quality and quantity of programs and services to business members and the communities where they work and live.

TICKETS are available $60 each for members, $70 each for non-members, or $550 for a table of 10. Tables of 10 are recognized by name AND logo! All tickets include entertainment, food and at least one drink (cash bar available at event). STUDENT VOLUNTEERS are needed: Students receive service hours for their time, and may help with checkin, watching silent auction tables, and running items to winners at the end of the event.

The Chamber is grateful for the generosity of these sponsors: Presenting – Lenoir City Utilities Board; TDS Telecom / Event – Suntrust now Truist; Town of Farragut; Knox County / Community: 3 to 99; Cyan Insurance Solutions; PCS, Inc.; Petree Arbor, Lawn & Landscape; Postal Annex / Media - farragutpress; ViaMedia. The Farragut/West Knox Chamber welcomes back these businesses who have renewed their investment in the Chamber as of this past August. We are privileged to count them as Farragut/West Knox Chamber of Commerce members! We urge members to patronize one another when the goods or services a member can provide are needed. It is also our hope that area residents recognize the commitment a business makes to its community when it becomes part of its local chamber of commerce and reward that commitment with their patronage.
