to support them, but these are bright kids and they want to learn something and our schools are strong.”

“For the first time ever, two teams from Tennessee will compete at the national level,” the release stated.

“One of the neat things this year is usually the top winner of the Science Bowl goes to represent Tennessee at the national Science Bowl,” said Shannon Turner, state Science Bowl coordinator and Oak Ridge Associated Universities coordinator. “But this year, the National Science Bowl is allowing the top two teams — first and second place — to go to the nationals.

“Collierville High School’s Team One, the second-place winning team, also will be going to D.C.”

Turner said there were 60 teams — 46 individual schools — competing in the state event. “It was great,” she said. “We even had five new schools.”

“The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) National Science Bowl is a nationwide academic competition that tests students’ knowledge in all areas of science and mathematics,” the Science Bowl website stated. “Middle and high school student teams are comprised of four students, one alternate and a teacher who serves as an advisor and coach.

“These teams face-off in a fast-paced question-and-answer format, being tested on a range of science disciplines including biology, chemistry, Earth science, physics, energy and math,” the website added. “The Department of Energy created the National Science Bowl in 1991 to encourage students to excel in mathematics and science and to pursue careers in these fields. More than 350,000 students have participated in the National Science Bowl throughout its 35 years.”
